

Year 6 Literacy Homework

Due in Friday 5th October

Below is my final draft of the mysterious story starter we've been writing about Kevin. But oh dear! It's littered with mistakes! Please help me out by re-writing it into your homework books with as much accurate spelling, punctuation and grammar as you can manage. See me with any questions – good luck! 😊

Gradually, Kevin edged his way down the daamp, dusty alley. Rats scuttled past his feet as he crept through the dim light of the Lamp-post. It smelt of sewers and rotting rubbish; shards of light trickled through cracked windows as he held his breath. Kevin pushed his way past some manky boxes and shuffled further down the murky alleyway Towards the end, he could see the door he was looking for, partialy obscured by over-filled rubbish bins and crumbling wooden palettes. suddenly, he was startled by a clatter behind him? Who else was here? Kevin ducked behind an empty crate, his heart thuding relentlessly.

“Who’s there?” he called out croakily. “have you forgotten me already” came the ghostly reply...
